BUSINESS BUILDING TIP

MANAGING THE UNEXPECTED

Back in March of this year the world started to shift, with no one knowing where it would lead. Most of us started to adjust the way we spend our time both personally and professionally. Some may have adapted with no problem, even appreciating the shift while others not so much.

Regardless of the past it's time to focus on the future. We can see the country starting to reopen, and this the perfect opportunity to get ahead of the next shift and start to plan how to manage your time to the best of your ability so that your FITTEAM Business can continue to thrive.

To better prepare for this shift let's take a look at three main categories:

Time Management

- Look ahead at your calendar what's changing, what's coming back what will remain free.
- Start filling your calendar, start to get in the habit of planning your calls and filling your open slots with task you'll need to complete.

Approach

- Reevaluated what has worked the past couple months in growing your business and figure out how to incorporate that moving forward.
- Take a look at what didn't work, now is the time to eliminate those actions.

Mindset

- Are you able to observe the changing that have happened and learn from them?
- Reevaluate your goals, have they changed? If, so how will you refocus your plan to make sure you are successful? It is important to keep your eye on the prize and to stay aware of what will lead you there.
